NEVADA STATE HEALTH DIVISION NEWS RELEASE

Nevada State Health Division Appoints Dana Woolley, RN, to Community Health Nursing Manager

Carson City – The Nevada State Health Division is announcing the appointment of Dana Woolley, RN, to Community Health Nursing Manager.

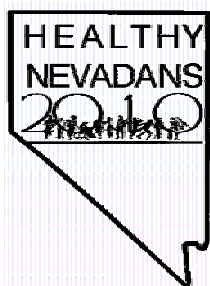

As Nursing Manager, Ms. Woolley directs and supervises community health nursing services in Nevada's rural counties. Services provided in the rural clinics include immunizations, well-child examination and healthy kids screenings, family planning education, counseling and treatment, cancer screening, sexually transmitted disease education and counseling, HIV/AIDS counseling, education and testing, communicable disease investigation, tuberculosis screening and education, school health promotion and education and children's special health care needs referrals.

Previously, Ms. Woolley was a Health Program Specialist, working with the Division's Immunization Program. Ms. Woolley has also been the Director, Quality Improvement with Corrections Corporation of America (CCA), as well as Health Services Administrator for CCA.

"Ms. Woolley's extensive background in health care, particularly her previous experience in community health is impressive and will strengthen the services provided to our rural communities," said Alex Haartz, Administrator, Nevada State Health Division.
