THESIS ABSTRACT

A Doctor's Conscience: Conventional and Reflective Morality in

Clinical Decision Making

by John Elliot Delap, III (Trey)

Dr. David Fott, Examination Committee Chair Professor of Political Science
University of Nevada, Las Vegas

This work examines ethical theories of deontology, teleology, internal and external morality as applied in conventional and reflective moral methods towards equilibrium among eight normative values for healthcare including: autonomy, beneficence, nonmaleficence, justice, privacy, confidentiality, veracity and fidelity. Upon critical analysis of conventional and reflective moral praxis' both are found to be insufficient in accommodating value pluralism. This work concludes by outlining a hybrid model for ethical decision making complementing both theories by bringing together conventions and reflection to more effectively guide professional medical practice toward the teleological aim of medicine.
