Good Morning -

I find it absurd that a government body will mandate an experimental medical procedure upon its constituents- whether it be college kids or anyone else for that matter.

This gene therapy procedure which doesn't meet the definition of a vaccine has caused irreparable damage to thousands of people - most of which the media refused to cover.

This 'vaccine' does NOT stop the spread of the virus nor does it protect you from receiving the virus. In theory it is 'supposed' to limit the severity of symptoms- however people are getting sick and even dying from the injection.

College age individuals and under have strong immune symptoms and are least likely to contract the virus.

This mandate would be a flagrant violation of our civil rights and would subject the schools to liability - under the 2005 PREP ACT enacted by Congress pharmaceutical companies that manufacture vaccines are shielded from liability related to injuries and damages caused by their experimental agents.

However - any employer, public school and/or and entity or person who mandates experimental vaccines on another human being is not protected from liability.

This tyrannical, immoral and absurd policy of mandating people to be forced to inject something into their body needs to stop immediately.

A concerned American Citizen
