Subject: Vaccine mandates for children

I very strongly oppose vaccine mandates on children, especially given that this is an experimental drug with very little testing. I don't care if the FDA approves this soon or not. A typical approval from the FDA takes 5 to 10 years not 1 year. Also I would note that the vaccine has proven to be relatively ineffective against the new variants and not greatly effective against the original strain. This is still America where we have the Constitution, and the Constitution does not allow for any person or government to force a person to take a drug regardless of whether it has been approved by the FDA or not. You have no right to force this upon our children, especially given that we have no idea about long term affects of this experimental vaccine.
